

ANNOUNCEMENT

Research Access to Archaeological Collections

ARCHAEOLOGICAL COLLECTIONS
AT THE MUSEUM OF INDIAN ARTS & CULTURE
AND THE
CENTER FOR NEW MEXICO ARCHAEOLOGY

OPEN ON A LIMITED BASIS ONLY

With the support of a grant from IMLS, the Museum is able to move the comparative collection of archaeological ceramic vessels to the new repository, using the move into the new facility as an opportunity to capture digital images and to update information in our catalog records for the 4,500 vessels in the collection. The entire project will run through at least June 2020.

Due to the dedication of available staff to packing, transporting, and photographing the artifacts, and limited access to portions of the collections during the move process, starting July 22, 2019 the Archaeological Collections will be open to researchers on a limited basis.

Appointments to visit archaeological collections must be requested at least one month in advance. We regret we will not be able to accommodate walk-in research visits.

Please submit a completed “Request for Access to Archaeological Collections” form and make an appointment with Julia Clifton, julia.clifton@state.nm.us, 505-476-1268, or 505-476-4444 at least one month prior to the date you propose to visit collections

The Request form can be downloaded from this website in either an MS Word request or PDF request version. Submission of a request will not guarantee access, as some materials in the collections might not be available for extended periods of time due to moving and collection reorganization efforts.

We regret that NO LOAN REQUESTS for archaeological materials will be considered until further notice.
